Module Code: ITP4507
Assignment Number: One
Hand-in: Friday 15 November, 2024 (On or before 4:30 PM to Moodle)
Weighting of This Assignment: 66.67% of the End of Module Assessment

Task Specification

Snow Storm Company develops an RPG game "Fantastic World (FW)" on the PC. The major characters in this game are known as HERO and they have various kinds of characteristic. For example, Warrior focus on defence and Warlock target on magic damage. Each player in this game can play more than one hero. Currently, this game only has Warrior and Warlock. In the coming future, this game will be extended to support more kinds of hero such as healer. The following is the simplified class diagram of existing data maintained by FW.

As a system analyst of the Company, you are required to design and develop FW. You can get the source codes of above classes from Moodle.

FW should provide the following functions:

1. Create a Player.
2. Add a hero (Warrior or Warlock) to the current player.
3. Remove a hero from the current player.
4. Select a player by using a player ID.
5. Call a hero's skill by a hero ID.
6. Show the detail information of current player.
7. Change the player's name of the current player.
8. Show all players.
9. Set current player.
10. Undo last command.
11. Redo the last undone command.
12. Show undo/redo list.
13. Exit System.

Your system design should conform to the Open Closed Principle so that your design should easily be extended to support new heroes (for examples, healers, rangers etc..).

You MUST apply the following design patterns for your new system

- Command pattern to provide the “create player”, “set current player”, “add hero”, “call hero skill”, “delete hero”, “show current player”, “display all players”, “change player’s name”. “undo”, “redo” and “show undo/redo list” functions
- Factory pattern or Abstract Factory Pattern to create different kinds of Command objects and different kinds of Player/Hero objects (e.g., Warrior object, Warlock object, Player object, etc.)
- Memento pattern to provide “Undo” and “Redo” functions on the “call hero skill” and “change player’s name” functions.

Assignment Report

In addition to the system development, you are required to write up a Short Report covers the following sections:

1. Assumptions regarding the problem context
2. Application design with class diagram
3. Discussion and explanation on each of the design patterns applied to the application
4. Test Plan and Test Cases
5. Well documented Source Code

Mark Allocation

Your assignment work will be marked according to the following criteria.

Work	Mark Allocated
System Coding and Implementation
a) Implementation of the system and coding style (Hard-coded output will result in zero mark.)	30%
b) Correctness of system functions * (Hard-coded output will result in zero mark.)	15%
c) Test Plan and Test Cases (Will be used in testing your own application.)	10%
System Analysis and Design, and Discussion
d) Design of your system and correct use of design patterns	20%
e) Application design with class diagram	10%
f) Discussion and explanation on each of the design patterns applied to the application	15%
Total	100%

Note: * Please note that your source code will be recompiled and tested for the correctness of the system functions. Your implementation is required to support the 'Copy and Paste' method for testing which is described in page 16.

Submission of Assignment Work

- The front page of your submission should include the programme title(code), module title(code), and student number and student name.
- Submit your Java source code and your report to <https://moodle.vtc.edu.hk> .
  - Well documented Source Code of your program.
  - Report for analysis, design, discussion, user guide, test plan and test cases of your following work.
    - The assumption made during analysis and design of the application
    - System design on your application with class diagram
    - Discussion on the design patterns that applied on your program
    - Test Plan with Test Cases (Design your own test plan and corresponding test cases for each function. For each test case, you should provide a SCREEN CAPTURE for test result).
- Submit according to the guideline on the top part of cover page. Late submission will NOT be accepted.

Extra Reference: Sample Test

Testing Method

This sample run is served for reference only. You are free to design your own user interface. But to make the testing environment simple and to apply the "Copy and Paste" testing method described on page 16 easily, you are advised to accept user input at the command prompt as shown in the sample run below.

Sample Run of assignment

You may follow the design of user interface shown in this sample run in DOS command prompt.

For following examples, character(s) with underline is user's input.

You can ease the testing by using the 'Copy and Paste' method rather than inputting data manually. Prepare a text file, which includes all user inputs in a test run. By using the 'Copy and Paste' method, you can automatically input in the command prompt window and then get the result automatically (without the input data echoed). The following is an example of the text file for user inputs.

Requirement for Scanner usage

Wrong Scanner usage (more than one object of Scanner is created for reading keyboard input):

```
// create new Scanner objects in loop do { Scanner sc = new Scanner( System.in);
    choice = sc.nextInt();
} while (choice != 1);

Correct Scanner usage (only one Scanner object is created for reading keyword input):

Following is an example program to use a Global Scanner object or pass as a parameter to do the input.

import java.util.Scanner;

public class Test { //Global declaration for Scanner public static Scanner sc = new Scanner(System.in);

    public static void main(String args[]) {
        int x;
        System.out.print("Enter x:");
        x = sc.nextInt();
    }

    public static void method1() {
        int y;
        System.out.print("Enter y:");
        y = sc.nextInt();

    public static void method2(Scanner sc) {
        int y;
        System.out.print("Enter y:");
        y = sc.nextInt();
    }
}
```

*** END ***
